Histology Vertigo

Naturally, my interest was peaked and I knew I would be able to find a correlation with histology. All I previously knew about vertigo was that it caused uncontrollable imbalance in a person, which is caused by the ear, the organ responsible for balance. The condition affects some individuals more than others. Some adults cannot get out of bed on a bad day, while it affects others only at

Two other terms followed in the text, both of which I was unfamiliar with also. The next term goes along with the first and is "adaxonal plasma membrane," which is defined as "the other domain which is in direct contact with the axon." The last term that goes along with these two is "mesaxon." This is "the third domain and is created when the axon is completely enclosed by the Schwann cell
